Neuro Linguistic Programming is the practice of understanding how we program and operate unconscious filters (values, limiting beliefs, fears), and organise our thinking, feelings, and actions to produce the results that we do. NLP also provides the skills, knowledge and techniques to achieve higher levels of personal and interpersonal mastery.

NLP Techniques can be applied in education, business, team building, sales, marketing, personal development, leadership, coaching, public speaking, or just for personal growth. Wherever there is human interaction and growth potential, NLP can be used to develop and enhance performance.

The course takes participants on a transformational journey of learning, self-discovery and personal growth, and teaches the techniques to influence and inspire change in others.

Neil Ashby has positively changed my life. The training is very powerful and the principles introduced to me have become woven into my everyday practice both personally and professionally. As a result I have made huge changes in all areas. NLP has given me greater confidence, self belief and flexibility, overcoming self imposed barriers, and achieving anything I set my mind to. I highly recommend his course.
